REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

the allowability resides in the overall structure of the device as recited in independent apparatus claims 1 and 14, and in overall method as recited in independent method claim 25, and at least in part because claims recite: "at least one stationary proximity sensor mounted adjacent said rectifying wheel for sensing positions of said pop-out indicators without contact therewith during rotation of said rectifying wheel to thereby sense at least one blown fuse".

The aforementioned limitations in combination with all remaining limitations of the respective independent claims, are believed to render said independent claims and all claims dependent therefrom patentable over the art of record.

The US/3,866,196 to Mann et al., (Mann) (cited on IDS) is believed to be the closest reference to the present invention.

Mann disclosed (Fig. 1-3) an electrical apparatus comprising: a rectifying wheel (15) comprising a plurality of rectifying diodes (16) and a plurality of fuses (16) associated therewith, each fuse comprising a housing (26), a fuse element (46) carried by said housing (26), and a pop-out indicator (57) movable between a normal position and a popped-out position extending outwardly from said housing (26) responsive to failure of said fuse element (46) to thereby visually indicate a blown fuse, but did not disclose at least one stationary proximity sensor mounted adjacent the rectifying wheel for sensing positions of the pop-out indicators without contact therewith during rotation of said rectifying wheel to thereby sense at least one blown fuse, as required by all pending independent claims of the instant application.

The Examiner has also cited the following pertinent to the present invention references:

US/6839660, 6335631, 5252915, 4506218, 4377784, 4136312, 3283219, 5739698, and JP/59-132760 disclosed various fault detection and monitoring systems for rotating electrical machines.

None of the cited references either taken alone or in combination is believed to render the present invention unpatentable as claimed.

2. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
